Your Relationship With your fairy:

My fairy has not replied to my letter, and I'm worried. What do I do?

This can happen every now and then and is nothing to worry about. Sometimes fairies have really busy nights keeping bad dream breezes away or searching for teeth, so sometimes they can't write back straight away. Fairies really are very active at night and just like us humans during the day, some are busier than others. Once all bad dream breezes are under control, sometimes your fairy even likes to go and visit their friends in a nearby human home too.

What does my fairy look like?

Fairies are like humans in that we all look different and each of us has our own unique qualities. Just like us, they have different colour eyes and hair. Some fairies are quite tall whereas there are lots of shorter fairies too!

I would like to see a picture of my fairy is this possible?

Best way to know what your fairy looks like is by asking them to tell you. Some fairies are excellent artists and may even give you a self-portrait to show you what they look like. Not all fairies have the same talents so while some fairies are excellent at drawing, other fairies are not and will be better at telling you what they look like. Try not be disappointed either way as your fairy is doing their best as always.

What kind of gift would my fairy like?

Fairies particularly love a gift made by you. It could be anything at all but they especially like it when their human draws pictures for them. Whatever drawing you might leave for your fairy, they will absolutely love it.

Fairies love shiny things, particularly things no one else seems to want, like old buttons, charms and paperclips. They don't however like human money. That is why they like to give it away when they collect your teeth.

How often should I write to my fairy?

Because fairies' hands are so tiny, we advise writing to your fairy just once a week. Even if you have lots to ask, it's best to write it all in one note to your fairy once a week. Fairies' hands can get a little tired if they try to write notes back more frequently than that.

What should I write on my note to my fairy?

You can tell your fairy about yourself, about your day or about something you are excited or worried about. Your fairy will love to read all of your news no matter what it is about because you wrote it just for them.

When is my fairy's birthday?

Fairies are just like us and have birthdays on all different days. Just ask your fairy when theirs is!

About Fairy Doors:

Why can't I open my fairy door?

You can't open your fairy's door as the lock is enchanted with fairy magic. Of course your fairy will have the key anyway, but even if you had the key, you would not be able to unlock the door. The lock can only be opened by a real fairy.

Can I move my fairy door?

You most certainly can! If you are going to move your door for any reason, just write a little note to your fairy explaining what is happening and when. Your fairy will pack up and be ready to leave when you are. Simply relocate your door and by morning your fairy will have moved back in to his or her new home without a hitch.

Can I bring my fairy on holiday?

Yes you can, if you tell your fairy where exactly you are going and you bring their fairy door with you! Some fairies love to go on holidays with their human families, whereas others take the opportunity to go back to Fairy Valley and have a nice relaxing break with their friends sitting in the sunshine (remember fairies usually only come out at night so sitting in the sunshine is very enjoyable for our little winged friends!). Make sure to let them know when you will be returning from your holiday and they will make sure to co-ordinate their break away with yours. There is never any need to worry about your fairy being left home alone. They are just like us - they love to spend time with their friends so they are never lonely.

Fairy Facts:

What jobs do fairies do?

Where to start?! Fairies blow away bad dreams, take care of sick or hurt insects, collect teeth, write notes, take worries away, grant wishes, watch dreams at night to learn more about their humans, collect food and train Green wings (trainee fairies). These are just a few of the jobs they do.

They also bring good luck and happiness where ever they go!

Some fairies have a talent for hearing wishes. We are told it is like hearing whispers in the wind to them. They know exactly who a wish has come from once they hear it. Other very special fairies can also take your worries away. These fairies use the energy that are found in worries to send to the fairies who grant wishes. This means a worry becomes a wish with a little fairy magic!

What do fairies do with teeth?

Fairies keep the teeth that are left out for them. They are so precious to fairies that they're like trophies to them. Often fairies will keep them sitting on little silk cushions on the mantles in their homes for all to admire. Your teeth hold all your childhood memories and fairies are guardians of these and take this job very seriously. Teeth have no value in terms of human money but fairies know how much humans like it so that is why they leave some in exchange for your precious tooth.

Do all fairies come from Ireland?

Yes every fairy comes from the Family Tree in Fairy Valley, right in the very centre of the island of Ireland.

What does my fairy do while I am in school?

Your fairy sleeps all day in their nice quiet house while you are at school so they are ready for that night and all the work they will do like blowing away bad dream breezes, collecting teeth and writing notes.

Remember to use your quiet voice during the day while your fairy is sleeping!

Do fairies have pets?

Yes we believe they do, but not like our pets. We have dogs, cats, birds and fish whereas fairies have caterpillars, ladybirds and other small insects. Fairies are very caring towards all wildlife and take care of all living things. They are especially fond of spiders and find that they make really great roommates.

Do fairies have brothers and sisters?

Fairies all come to be on a special branch of the Family Tree in Fairy Valley. Each fairy arrives inside their own bud on that branch. So we suppose in a way every fairy is related, with each of them connected through the Family Tree like one big family, close and always looking after one another.

What do fairies eat?

Fairies are easily pleased when it comes to what they eat and will help themselves to small amounts of food straight from your cupboards. However, if you feel like leaving a treat out for your fairies they simply cannot resist a raisin or a Cheerio! These two things are fairies' favourite snacks.

Do fairies ever get sad?

Yes fairies do get sad sometimes, especially when their human is sad or feeling worried. They can help you though: if you are feeling worried or sad about something, why not tell your fairy? Telling someone when you are feeling bad always makes you feel better.

ABOUT THE "AUTHOR" AND THIS BOOK

I am a stay at home mom of 1 boy and 2 little girls.
When my 8 year old got our homes first fairy door, she was filled with excitement and wonder!

I went to the Fairy Door Company to see if they had something I could give her - something like this but in hard copy - and found only online facts and FAQ's.

So using their collective Q & A's and others I have found throughout the internet - I created this book.

I do hope to have it printed for her one day, but until then, this will do!

I take no claim to any of the information or photos presented in this Free e-book and you may do with it as you will.

ENJOY!
